Red Deer Airport's CEO has been named to the board of the International Association of Airport Executives Canada.

RJ Steenstra has been appointed to a three-year term to IAAE Canada, which promotes the development of airport management professionals through education, training and career enhancement opportunities.

Steenstra has served as Red Deer Airport CEO since 2010, and is also a director with the Regional Community Airports of Canada Association, Champions Career Centre and Tourism Red Deer.

He obtained his accredited airport executive (AAE) designation from IAAE Canada last year.
